Extended Forecast – A slight chance of Tshowers will linger early tomorrow morning with clearing expected by 9am. Mostly sunny skies will then be in place over the weekend before a chance of Tshowers returns on Monday. Overnight lows will be in the mid-50s to lower 60s with highs in the mid-70s to near 80F. The strongest winds of the period are expected tomorrow afternoon when gusts around 22 mph will be possible. Noticeably cooler and drier air will settle in this weekend behind a cold front.
