MASTERS and MAJOR NOTES

Argentina has accounted for three major championships, with Cabrera and his two joining Roberto De Vicenzo (1967 British Open). First South American to win Masters Tournament.

15th player to win the Masters (2009) and U.S. Open (2007) in career.

Second consecutive international champion (Trevor Immelman, South Africa) and the fourth since 2000 (Vijay Singh, Fiji, 2000; Mike Weir, 2003, Canada).

Won the 14th playoff in Masters Tournament history.

The only player at the 2009 Masters to open with three rounds in the 60s – he is the 11th player in Masters history to do so, and the first since Trevor Immelman last year. No player has even posted four rounds in the 60s in a single Masters Tournament.

First player to claim two major championships as first two PGA TOUR events since Peter Thomson, who won the British Open in 1954-55 and played what is now considered the PGA TOUR schedule (17 events in 1954, 18 events in 1955). It should be noted that Cabrera also has 17 international titles to his credit.
