Tiger Woods at Major Championships

Career Professional Majors: 47

Cuts Made: 45 (2006 U.S. Open)

Career Major Victories: 14 (1997, 2001, 2002, 2005 Masters Tournament; 2000, 2002, 2008 U.S. Open Championship; 2000, 2005, 2006 British Open Championship; 1999, 2000, 2006, 2007 PGA Championship)

Career Major Top-10s: 29 (10-Masters Tournament; 7-British Open; 7-PGA Championship; 5-U.S. Open)

The winner Angel Cabrera was the only player this week to open with three rounds in the 60s – he is the 11th player in Masters history to do so, and the first since Trevor Immelman last year. No player has even posted four rounds in the 60s in a single Masters Tournament.

John Merrick (T6) finished as low Masters “rookie” among the 19 first-timers that teed it up this week (see chart below). He qualified for the 2009 Masters after finishing T6 at the 2008 U.S. Open.

Dustin Johnson (Nos. 13-14) became just the second player in Masters history to post back-to-back eagles. Dan Pohl did so in the third round (Nos. 13-14) in 1982.

Steve Stricker made his first bogey (No. 8) since No. 2 in the second round on Friday, ending a streak of 42 consecutive holes without a bogey. Stuart Appleby holds the Masters record (2001) for consecutive holes without a bogey with 50 (No. 5 in Round 1-No. 1 in Round 4).

With Angel Cabrera’s win coming from the final twosome, the winner has come from the final pairing every year since 1991 with one exception (2007, Zach Johnson). The 1990 champion Nick Faldo was in the penultimate group.

Tiger Woods has never come from behind to win at a major championship after trailing through 54 holes, having been a leader or co-leader at all 14 of his major wins.
