Final-Round Notes – Sunday, March 15, 2009

Weather: Partly cloudy with isolated showers. Afternoon high in the low 80s. Winds NE 10-20 mph, gusting to 20-30 mph.

Michael Bradley picked up his third career PGA TOUR victory with a dramatic birdie on the 18th hole to finish at 14-under 274 at the Puerto Rico Open. Bradley's playing partner Jason Day had a chance to birdie out and force a playoff, but missed a 10-foot putt to finish at 13-under along with Brett Quigley

This was Michael Bradley's first tournament of the 2009 TOUR season. He played 14 events in 2008 and missed the cut eight times.

Michael Bradley has now turned two career third-round leads into victories with today's win at the Puerto Rico Open and at the 1998 Doral-Ryder Open.

Michael Bradley's win in at the Doral-Ryder Open came on March 8, 1998, 11 years and seven days from his win today at the Puerto Rico Open.

Michael Bradley's win at the 1998 Doral-Ryder Open came at the same site as the World Golf Championships-CA Championship, which is also being played today in Florida.

Michael Bradley's last top-10 finish came at the 2000 Michelob Championship at Kingsmill, a span of 64 tournaments. Prior to 2000, Bradley had 18 top 10 finishes in seven seasons including wins at the 1996 Buick Challenge and the 1998 Doral-Ryder Open. Of Bradley's 48 top 25 finishes, 41 came before the 2000 season.

Jason Day's T2 is his best finish on the PGA TOUR. Day's previous best finish was sixth at the 2008 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.
