Extended Forecast – A system will pass just to our south tonight into tomorrow, bringing cloudy skies to the area. A brief rain shower also can't be completely ruled out. A weak front is expected to pass through the area Friday afternoon and could touch off a brief shower. The latest forecast is trending drier. A large area of high pressure will develop over the area this weekend with plenty of sunshine and warming conditions expected. Winds throughout the week will be fairly light, generally under 15 mph.
