Bernhard Langer, 63-72—135

- Langer's 36-hole score of 135 ties the tournament course record for third lowest. He shot the same score in 2008 when he won his second Insperity Invitational title and shot the second-lowest of 134 when he won in 2014.
- All three times Langer has won the Insperity Invitational he led in the second round. His largest lead entering the final round was by four in 2007 when the tournament was played at Augusta Pines, and he claimed the title by eight.
- This marks the 36th time Langer has led/co-lead after the second round in his PGA TOUR Champions career and he has gone on to win 21 times. This year, he has only led/co-led entering the final round once, the 2018 Mitsubishi Electric Classic where he finished T2.
- Entering the final round, Langer has led/co-lead in 23 of his 36 victories on PGA TOUR Champions.
- On Saturday, Bernhard Langer's age is 60 years, 8 months, 8 days. If he goes on to win, it would be his fourth since he turned 60 on August 27, 2017, and he would become the Tour's all-time leader in wins at age 60 or older.
- Should Langer go on to win, it would be his 12th straight season with a victory, setting a PGA TOUR Champions record. His current streak of 11 consecutive years is tied with Hale Irwin for most all-time. Irwin played Saturday in the 3M Greats of Golf competition at The Woodlands Country Club Tournament Course. Langer would also move to No. 1 for the first time this year on the Charles Schwab Cup money list.

Second-Round Lead Notes

- This year, a second-round leader/co-leader has won two of the eight tournaments (Mark Calcavecchia – Boca Raton championship, Joe Durant – Chubb Classic).
- Five of this year's seven winners have played in Sunday's final group. Vijay Singh, champion of the Toshiba Classic and Steve Flesch champion of the Mitsubishi Electric Classic played in the second-to-last group.
- Last year, eventual champion John Daly entered the final round at 11-under with a one-stroke lead. This year he enters Sunday five-over in a four-way tie for 69th place.
