Third round postponed at Country Club de Bogotá Championship

BOGOTÁ, Colombia – The Web.com Tour’s Country Club de Bogotá Championship continued Saturday on the club’s Fundadores Course on a rainy day in the capital city. The third round was postponed at 2:03 p.m. due to rain and course conditions. The third round will resume on Sunday at 7:00 a.m. with the final round beginning at approximately 9:40 a.m.

Mark Anderson is currently at the top of the leaderboard with nine holes to play in round three at 12-under. Tyler McCumber and Chris Baker are one stroke off the pace at 11-under. Drew Weaver, who began the day T43, has climbed to T5 after a Saturday 65 and is now the low player in the clubhouse at 9-under.

Weaver began the day with two birdies in his first four holes but a double bogey on No. 7 dropped him back to even par for the round. After the double, Weaver caught fire by playing his next five holes at 6-under par.

“I pride myself on bouncing back strong and each week it’s a goal of mine to keep my cool and not get too caught up in the moment whether good or bad,” Weaver said. “To bounce back like I did with that run of good holes was a really positive thing. I had some looks down the stretch I couldn’t convert, but I’m excited to be in the mix for tomorrow.”

Weaver used an eagle on No. 8 and birdies on Nos. 9, 10, 11 and 12 to turn his Saturday around. The Virginia Tech grad closed with six pars to post a 65 and now sits near the top of the leaderboard.

“I kept giving myself a lot of looks throughout the day and they all started going in at once. It was nice to get it going and give myself a chance for tomorrow,” Weaver said. “It’s a matter of staying calm and realizing that if I can play the course the right way and play to my strengths, I’ll get a lot of looks and days like today will happen.”

Rhein Gibson is currently in solo-fourth place with three players tied for fifth. Thirteen groups are still out on the course with the final group on No. 10.
