

Q. In position there and probably not the way you wanted to finish the round out?

STEVE STRICKER: No. I had some opportunities coming in, you know? I had opportunity at 15, and 17 and 18. You know? I've been giving myself some opportunities around here the first couple of days and just not getting it in there. Not knocking 'em in. I'll hit good putts, a lot of misreads, I'll hit a few bad putts. I'm just struggling on getting it in the hole.

Q. What do you have to do to change that tomorrow? Do you think some familiarity with the golf course will help with that?

STEVE STRICKER: I don't know. It's been that way all year so far. I don't know. I don't know if I'm just not thinking properly or -- I'm starting to feel like I'm stroking it better, which is a good thing. I holed some nicer putts today but, again, I had some opportunities that I didn't capitalize on.

Q. What do you think you have to do tomorrow? You're probably going to be two shots back.

STEVE STRICKER: Probably more than that, probably three or four back. I'm going to have to shoot a low one, make 'em. Keep giving myself those opportunities, maybe throw in an eagle somewhere there, and I'm going to have to go low. It's going to have to be one of those 8- to 10-under rounds here to catch 'em. The scoring is good here, and there is a bunch of guys there at 11. There's probably going to be two or three guys at 12 or more. I'm going to be three, four shots back, so I'm going to have to put up a special one tomorrow.

Q. Thanks, Steve.
