Extended forecast – Off-shore flow will continue on Friday providing mostly sunny skies and mild temperatures in the mid 60s. A trough of low-pressure will begin to move towards Central California on Saturday and this will begin the transition back to an on-shore flow. Partly cloudy skies can be expected Saturday but marine layer low clouds and patchy fog will likely return Saturday night and continue into Sunday morning. Temperatures will be cooler Sunday with highs in the upper 50s to low 60s along the coast. Any rain chances with the trough will remain to the north keeping Southern California dry.
