Today – Warmer and more humid air is surging northward today with highs returning the low 80s. Scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms will be possible, especially during the late morning into the afternoon hours. Otherwise partly cloudy skies can be expected with a light wind increasing out of the southeast 10-15 mph as the sea breeze moves on-shore this afternoon.

Extended forecast – Hot and humid conditions can be expected Friday into Saturday with highs in the mid to upper 80s. Upper level energy will combine with the afternoon sea breeze to produce the chance for showers and thunderstorms during the afternoon hours. The chances for any shower or thunderstorm activity will decrease Sunday into Monday as the upper level energy moves off-shore and high pressure briefly builds over the Southeast.
