- This is the third time he has won a tournament in his debut.
 - 2014 Mitsubishi Electric Classic

Steve Flesch, 66-68-63 – 197 (-13)

- Playing in the fifth-to-last group, Flesch eagled the par-5 16th to move to 13-under and earn a share of the lead with Jiménez. He parred the last two holes to complete a 7-under 63 and post the clubhouse lead.
- In his last start, Flesch shot a final-round, 9-under 62 and improved from 78th to T36 at the Charles Schwab Series at Ozarks National. Today, he improved from T11 to second with his final-round 63.
- He finished T5 at last year's event, and he's the only player with top-five finishes the last two years.
- The runner-up finish was his 14th top-10 on PGA TOUR Champions and his best finish since he won the 2018 Mitsubishi Electric Classic.

Steve Stricker, 67-64-67 – 198 (-12)

- Stricker birdied No. 14 to pull within one, and his deficit remained one after both he and Jiménez birdied No. 16. On the par-3 17th, he pulled his tee shot and missed the green, and the ensuing bogey left him in a tie for third at 12-under.
- In 27 starts on PGA TOUR Champions, Stricker has five victories and 14 top-three finishes. This season, he has four top-10s and is 15th in the Charles Schwab Cup.
- This is just the second time he has not won after starting the final round with the lead/co-lead. He is now 4-for-6 in converting those leads into victories.
- As the winner of the 2019 U.S. Senior Open, Stricker will play in next week's U.S. Open at Winged Foot. In 21 starts at the U.S. Open, Stricker has posted four top-10s, including a T6 in 2006 at Winged Foot.
