Adam Svensson surges late, birdies second playoff hole to win Club Car Championship at The Landings Club

SAVANNAH, Ga. – After birdies on the last two holes of regulation, Adam Svensson birdied the second playoff hole and defeated 54-hole leader Max McGreevy to win the Club Car Championship at The Landings Club. It was Svensson’s second career Korn Ferry Tour victory, and he becomes the first Canadian to win on Tour since Michael Gligic won the 2019 Panama Championship.

Svensson played the final 10 holes of regulation at 5-under par and upended McGreevy’s bid to become the first wire-to-wire winner on Tour since Kramer Hickok won the 2018 DAP Championship presented by NewBrick.

McGreevy also birdied the final two holes of regulation to match Svensson’s total score of 17-under par.

Both players had a chance to win on the first extra hole, the par-5 18th, but Svensson missed a 12-foot birdie putt after an aggressive run at an eagle try from off the green, and McGreevy missed a 6-footer for birdie.

“I thought (McGreevy) was going to make it,” Svensson said.

Svensson and McGreevy both found the fairway bunker off the 18th tee the second time around and were forced to lay up. Svensson hit his 95-yard approach shot to 8 feet and lipped in the birdie putt.

“I would say it’s my biggest tournament win ever,” said Svensson, whose last victory was at the 2018 Bahamas Great Abaco Classic at The Abaco Club. “I put so much hard work in in the offseason... hardest I’ve ever worked in my life. I’ve never been that hard of a worker.”

In 2018, Svensson posted five top-10s and a victory on the Korn Ferry Tour to finish 18th in the regular season standings and earn his PGA TOUR card for the 2018-19 season. He posted three top-25 finishes and finished 167th in the FedExCup in his only full season on TOUR, but this week's victory puts him at No. 12 in the Korn Ferry Tour points standings and in position for a return to the TOUR for 2021-22.

"I made a commitment to myself about five months ago," Svensson said. "I was tired of playing well, not playing well, lost my PGA TOUR card, and it's because I'm not working hard enough. Now I'm fully committed, and we'll see where it takes me."

"You grow up and you realize you've got to do things correctly. I think the Korn Ferry Tour has done a great job of building me as a player."

Svensson emerged from a crowded Sunday leaderboard, which he said he did not look at until just before his birdie putt at No. 17. McGreevy's runner-up finish will move him from 19th to 11th in the Korn Ferry Tour points standings. Three other players finished at 16-under par, one shot behind Svensson and McGreevy.

Sunday Notes

- Sunday's weather: Partly cloudy and breezy with a high of 84 degrees and wind S/SW at 12-20 mph, with gusts up to 25-30 mph
- Shad Tuten (T3 / -16) took the outright lead with a birdie at No. 10, the second-toughest hole Sunday, and held a two-stroke lead after a birdie at No. 13; he played collegiate golf at Savannah's Georgia Southern University-Armstrong Campus and was a Savannah resident for roughly four years thereafter
- Brett Coletta (T3 / -16) has finished each of the last 11 rounds at this tournament inside the top 10; he also finished T3 in both 2019 and 2020
- Sunday's lowest round was an 8-under 64 carded by Carl Yuan (T7 / -14) and Jimmy Stanger (T10 / -13), tying Greg Yates (a 64 Friday) for the lowest round of the tournament
- Three bogey-free rounds were carded Sunday – Dawson Armstrong (66), Ben Kohles (69), and Steve Marino (66)
 - Armstrong also carded a bogey-free 67 Thursday and was the only player this week with multiple bogey-free scorecards
- Brian Richey (T67 / -3) and Zach Zaback (77th / +1) were the only two (of eight) Monday qualifiers to play the weekend
- This week's purse was $600,000 with $108,000 going to the champion, Adam Svensson; he also earned 500 Korn Ferry Tour points
- The Club Car Championship at The Landings Club was the third event of 2021 and the 26th of the 2020-21 combined season
- The combined 2020-21 Korn Ferry Tour schedule will conclude with 25 PGA TOUR cards awarded in August at the 2021 Pinnacle Bank Championship presented by Aetna, with an additional 25 cards awarded at the conclusion of the 2021 Korn Ferry Tour Finals
