Extended forecast – Friday and Saturday, dry weather is expected with partly cloudy skies. Light breezes generally from the northeast are expected, but likely become more variable on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday, a low chance of a few afternoon/evening showers/t-storms may develop but confidence is low with this. Winds will become south-southwest on Sunday, up to 15 mph. A slight warming trend is expected into the weekend with highs rising into the lower to middle 70s.
