Extended forecast – Challenging weather conditions are forecast on Saturday with scattered showers, cool temperatures, and windy conditions. Scattered rain showers will be possible before noon ahead of an approaching cold front. This front will reach the Monterey Peninsula around noon and winds will dramatically increase out of the northwest at 15-25mph with peak gusts over 30mph. Sunday is looking to be a pleasant day with partly cloudy skies and northwest winds at 10-20mph.
