BMW
CHAMPIONSHIP

TOURNAMENT STORYLINES

From 70 down to 30: The top 70 in the current FedExCup standings are eligible for the BMW Championship, and the top 30 after this week will move on to the TOUR Championship, where the FedExCup Champion will be crowned. Since the points structure changed in 2009, an average of 2.83 players per year enter the BMW Championship outside the top 30 and go on to qualify for the TOUR Championship, including two in 2020 (Joaquin Niemann, Mackenzie Hughes).

Caves Valley plays host: Caves Valley Golf Club in Owings Mills, Maryland, becomes the ninth different venue to host the BMW Championship since the inception of the FedExCup in 2007. The PGA TOUR has not previously held a tournament at Caves Valley, but the Tom Fazio design has hosted several significant events, including the 2002 U.S. Senior Open, 2005 NCAA Championships, 2007 Palmer Cup and 2017 BRIDGESTONE SENIOR PLAYERS Championship. Kevin Kisner and Chris Kirk, both in the field this week, led Georgia to the national championship title at Caves Valley in 2005.

Finau moves to No. 1: With his win at THE NORTHERN TRUST, Tony Finau moved to No. 1 in the FedExCup standings for the first time in his PGA TOUR career. Since the points structure changed prior to the 2009 season, two players occupying the No. 1 position in the standings entering the BMW Championship have gone on to win the FedExCup: Henrik Stenson (2014) and Dustin Johnson (2020).

World No. 1 and defending champion: Jon Rahm returns to defend his 2020 BMW Championship title at a new venue, entering the week at No. 1 in the Official World Golf Ranking and No. 2 in the FedExCup standings. Rahm defeated Dustin Johnson in a playoff in 2020 to win the BMW Championship and finished third at last week's THE NORTHERN TRUST after holding at least a share of the lead through 18, 36 and 54 holes.

International flavor: Players from 17 different countries qualified for the BMW Championship, the most in the FedExCup era.
