Extended forecast – A weak front will move through the area early Saturday morning producing mostly cloudy skies and a very small chance for any shower activity. Partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures can be expected through the day Saturday. Cannot rule out an isolated thunderstorm developing in the afternoon, but the higher chances will be in the mountains. Otherwise, high pressure builds over the region Sunday with highs around 90 degrees. Hotter temperatures can be expected Monday with highs in the mid 90s.
