Extended Forecast – Skies become partly cloudy tonight with overnight lows in the 70's. There will be a few showers and thunderstorms developing across north-central Nebraska overnight that will weaken as they progress towards Indian Creek early Saturday morning. Only a slight chance exists for these to bring any rain for the start of the day on Saturday. Otherwise, expect hot conditions with temperatures reaching the upper 90's and southwest winds shifting to the northwest through the day. Temperatures will be cooler on Sunday with light easterly winds and partly cloudy skies.
