Today – The onset of rain has been delayed by a few hours, with the period between 3-6pm now favored for highest chances (~70%). Some lightning is possible within this activity, however given the cloud cover in place, the threat will be relatively low (20-30% chance). Regardless, heavy downpours remain a concern. Showers should quickly dissipate by sunset with clouds decreasing rapidly overnight. Temperatures are expected to fall into the upper 50s with light winds. Most likely rainfall: Less than 0.25"; with localized pockets up to 0.50". Sunrise: 6:28am / Sunset: 8:38pm

Tomorrow – No weather concerns for the final round as much drier air spreads across northern Utah. Mostly sunny skies can be expected throughout the day with temperatures reaching the middle to upper 80s during the afternoon. Light winds during the morning will become northwest at 6-12 during the afternoon. Sunrise: 6:29am / Sunset: 8:36pm
