

Scottish Open Forecast

6 AM Update

Thursday, 07 July 2022

Synopsis - Today expect a bright start but we will begin to see more clouds late this afternoon with winds increasing. Today will be warmer with max temperatures in the low 20/70s. As warm air moves into the region on Friday expect more clouds through the early afternoon with winds increasing from the west-southwest. The warmer air moving in may bring a few spots of drizzle in the early morning. Max temperatures will be around 20C/68F. High pressure starts to take control this weekend with partly sunny skies for Saturday and then more sun for Sunday with warmer temperatures. Winds will be strong for Saturday but should ease off for Sunday. Temperatures will warm further for early next week.
