Today – Sunny skies this morning will give way to mostly cloudy skies this afternoon as one more piece of upper-level energy moves across Southern Michigan. Cannot rule out an isolated shower developing during the late afternoon, but dry air over region should help to any precipitation from forming today. Otherwise, temperatures should warm to around 80 degrees this afternoon with a westerly breeze of 10-15 mph making it feel more comfortable as well.

Extended forecast – High pressure will provide mostly sunny skies Saturday with highs warming into the mid 80s. It will remain comfortable with the humidity remaining low. The high will shift further east on Sunday allowing the southwest flow to pump warmer temperatures northward with highs returning to the upper 80s. An approaching cold front will bring a chance for showers and thunderstorms towards the evening hours on Monday.
