Extended forecast – Dry conditions are forecast overnight and on Saturday morning. A stray shower or pop-up thunderstorm may occur Saturday afternoon. A few showers will become possible Sunday morning with scattered showers and thunderstorms expected in the afternoon out ahead of a frontal boundary approaching from the northwest. Latest guidance would suggest hourly lightning probabilities for Sunday afternoon will range between 40-50%. Rainfall of 0.20 – 0.50" is forecast to occur on Sunday, with some heavy downpours possible in the stronger cells during the afternoon.
