

SUNDAY, JUNE 19, 2022 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Happy Father's Day! The atmosphere welcomes you to the day with chilly raindrops and a northwest breeze, but the trend is for the weather to improve gradually as the day goes on. Temperatures crawl out of the low 50s as the back edge of precipitation departs the region around lunchtime, eventually scraping the low 60s late in the afternoon. The final huff and puff from the northwest will gust at or near 20 mph through the middle of the day and dwindle after 4 PM, with optimism prevailing that the cloud cover will retreat to create relatively comfortable conditions before sunset. Clearing skies will allow temps to settle near 50 once more tonight. While the recounts of today may include a few shivers, Monday tells a different tale as sunshine promotes temperatures rising into the 70s.
