Extended forecast – Heavy rain and thunderstorms are likely to develop overnight as a humid and unstable airmass remains in place. The highest rain/storm probabilities will occur between midnight and 4am Friday. Cannot rule out a few lingering showers into Friday morning before activity largely pushes offshore. As moisture lingers for another day, additional showers may materialize during the afternoon hours on Friday – but expect accumulation to hold under 0.25" as the higher coverage of precipitation is anticipated offshore/over Cozumel where an isolated thunderstorm may occur. Drier air will move in Friday night into Saturday. Dry conditions are likely Saturday, with just a slim (20%) chance for a passing light shower or drizzle. A few showers may occur on Sunday under a mix of sun and clouds, with rainfall holding below 0.10". Breezy northerly winds are forecast for Saturday and Sunday.
