Today – A slow moving cold front will approach the DFW area later today with the threat for showers/T-storms increasing during the mid to late afternoon. Widespread shower/T-storm activity should hold off until this evening. Otherwise, widespread cloud cover is expected much of the day with temperatures climbing into the lower 80s. Winds will be lighter; however, gusts of 20-25 mph are still possible, mainly this morning. Forecast rainfall: Less than 0.25". Sunrise: 6:49am / Sunset: 8:03pm
