Extended forecast – A stray shower can't be completely ruled out Friday and Saturday afternoons, with a drier air mass expected to move into the area by Sunday. Temperatures increase slightly Friday and Saturday, potentially reaching the mid 80s on Saturday. Overnight showers are possible as a cold front moves through the area, which will allow for slightly cooler temperatures on Sunday with highs in the low-mid 70s. Winds are anticipated to remain mainly out of the northeast Friday through Sunday, with the breeziest conditions expected Sunday with gusts to 15-20 mph across susceptible wind-prone areas.
