Extended forecast – An unstable but capped environment will be in place Friday. While isolated T-storm development could occur along the dry line after 5pm, dry conditions are favored across much of the DFW area. Otherwise, a cold front will clear the area between 10am-12pm Saturday with mostly sunny and dry conditions the rest of the weekend. Wind gust over 30 mph will be possible Friday with gusts over 25 mph possible on Saturday.
