Things to Know

- At 10-under, 18- and 36-hole solo leader Harry Hall and Adam Schenk share the third-round lead at the Charles Schwab Challenge; marks the first time since 2014 that the event does not have a solo leader after 54 holes
- Hall becomes the first player to shoot over par in the third round and finish the round leading/co-leading in a non-major since Sam Burns in the 2021 Genesis Invitational
- Prior to Hall, the last time a player shot over par in the third round at the Charles Schwab Challenge and held at least a share of the 54-hole lead: 1990 – Ben Crenshaw shot 72 in the third round and followed it up with a 66 in the final round
- Hall holds the third-round lead/co-lead for the first time in his 26th PGA TOUR start; Schenk holds the third-round lead/co-lead for the third time in individual stroke-play events (0-for-2 to date converting to victory)
- Defending champion Sam Burns trails by seven in bid to join Ben Hogan as players to successfully defend the tournament’s title; Burns also trailed by seven entering the final round before winning in 2022
- Scottie Scheffler trails by six strokes in attempt to become the first World No. 1 to win the Charles Schwab Challenge since Adam Scott in 2014
- With a win this week, Scheffler would become the first player since Ryuji Imada at the 2008 AT&T Classic to win a tournament after losing in a playoff at that tournament the year prior
