Today – Showers will be few and far between, with the highest chances expected during the late morning through midday hours as a patch of relatively higher moisture drifts through the breezy east-northeasterly trade winds. Any showers that occur will last for several minutes before dry conditions are reestablished for long stretches. Anticipate sustained winds between 13-20 mph, frequent gusts of 20-26 mph, and isolated higher wind gusts within any showers that pass over Corales Golf Course.
