

Welcome!

This is the 52nd John Deere Classic, the 23rd at TPC Deere Run, and the 25th sponsored by Deere & Company. You hold in your hands the ninth consolidated Guide & Record Book for the tournament.

The Deere, contested under a rainbow of names, first surviving and now thriving thanks to the perseverance of many dedicated golf lovers in the Quad Cities who make the Birdies for Charity fund-raising arm a remarkable success story, has a lively history. The statistical tale is here, the final three parts of this 202-page Guide, which begins with ...

Part I, 10 pages with the basic tournament information.

Part II is the most complete set of records assembled, the product of a scoring database of 7,617 player appearances updated through 2022, plus poring through newspaper and magazine coverage of the tournament. This 38-page section begins on the following page, and includes several new categories, including:

- leading performances by sponsor exemptions (page 20);
- leading performances by Monday qualifiers (pages 20-21);
- plus updates and expansions to every category.

Part III details the tournament year-by-year, beginning with its appearance on the Tournament Players Series calendar, the PGA Tour's original satellite tour – equivalent to today's Korn Ferry Tour – in 1971. This 60-page section features scores in relation to par, money earnings to the penny, who received a special exemption, and who advanced from Monday qualifying.

Results for the last 10 years include expanded statistics for those who played all 72 holes, a feature that will be extended backwards as far as possible in the future.

Part IV is the alphabetical player register, an 93-page section revised and updated to include results from 2022.

This is the most complete record of the John Deere Classic. It has been assembled to help the writer or broadcaster on deadline find what is needed quickly. We invite your thoughts on corrections and improvements to the Guide, and hope you find it useful.

Birdies For Charity

The John Deere Classic's Birdies for Charity had a record year in 2022, the Quad City community raising $13.908 million for 481 local and regional charities.

The program awarded a 7 percent bonus payment to each group on top of the money raised through the Birdies for Charity program, created in 1993.

The John Deere Classic now has helped raise a total of $159.57 million for charity since the tournament began in 1971, with more than $156 million – 97.8 percent – coming since John Deere assumed the title sponsorship in 1998.

The $13,908,668 total works out to $37.09 for each of the Quad Cities' 375,000 residents, again making the John Deere Classic the No. 1 in per capita contributions on the regular PGA TOUR, a distinction the tournament has had for over a decade.

Overall, the John Deere Classic ranks among the top three in charitable giving on the PGA TOUR.

In 2022, 2,041 birdies were recorded from Wednesday through Sunday during the John Deere Classic pro-am and tournament rounds. Individuals who pledged a penny per birdie would donate $20.41 to their designated charity or charities.

Other individuals, foundations and institutions donate lump sums to designated charities.

Again this year, the donor who guesses the correct number of birdies will receive a two-year lease on a Lexus NX courtesy of Smart Lexus of Quad Cities in Davenport.

The free Lexus NX lease program annually serves as an incentive to potential donors to participate in the Birdies program. Smart Lexus of Quad Cities also provides courtesy cars for John Deere Classic contestants and on-course evacuation vehicles.

"Birdies for Charity is extremely grateful that Smart Lexus of Quad Cities has made such a strong commitment to the John Deere Classic and to the hundreds of charities we serve in the Quad Cities and neighboring communities," said Birdies for Charity director Micaela Booth. "The opportunity for Birdies for Charity donors to win a two-year lease on a Lexus NX adds an extra incentive and an element of fun and excitement to the pledge drive and to tournament week itself."

The total amount donated to the charities is the result of an efficient three-pronged fundraising effort:

1. The tournament's Birdies for Charity program enables individuals, companies, and foundations to pledge to a charity or charities of their choice either a minimum of one cent for each birdie recorded at the tournament from Wednesday-Sunday or in lump sum donations.

2. Because John Deere underwrites the administrative costs of the Birdies program, 100 percent of each Birdies pledge collected goes to the core mission of the designated charities rather than to administrative, operational or fundraising activities.

3. The Bonus Fund consists of tournament revenues, direct donations, the John Deere Foundation matching grant, and proceeds from special events, such as pre-tournament concerts.

TPC Deere Run

The Tournament Players Club Deere Run became the permanent site of the John Deere Classic in 2000, when Michael Clark II won his first PGA Tour title in a four-hole Monday playoff at the course's inaugural event.

Golf Digest ranks TPC Deere Run among the Top 100 public courses in the nation. Golfweek consistently ranks Deere Run among the best public courses in the state of Illinois.

Nestled along the Rock River in Silvis, Ill., TPC Deere Run is a rolling, heavily wooded, 385-acre former Arabian horse farm once owned by descendants of John Deere himself. The 7,183-yard, par-71 course now sits on land donated to the PGA TOUR by Deere & Company for development of a world-class championship golf venue consistent with the company's own high-quality standards as well as the demands of top professionals and discriminating golfers.

“When I first saw it, I really thought it was a unique piece of property that would allow us to build an old-style traditional golf course,”

Hole-By-Hole begins on page 47

Weibring said. “Yet with the natural hillside vistas, ravines and elevation changes the land fit naturally into the TPC stadium course concept.”

Deere Run's spectator mounds more often than not occur naturally.

Player reaction to the layout has been extremely positive from the outset and its reputation after 20 playings of the John Deere Classic continues to grow.

“We have made every effort to have each hole serve as a lasting memory,” Weibring said. “We hope it will encourage players to return again and again.”

Each hole has a permanent plaque that uses historical footnotes and narratives to connect this modern, state-of-the-art golf facility to the history of the Quad Cities and John Deere.

Tournament History – from Crow Valley to Oakwood to TPC Deere Run

In the year 2000, the new Tournament Players Club Deere Run in Silvis, Ill., provided the launching pad that propelled the John Deere Classic into a new millennium. Built to give the Quad Cities' PGA TOUR stop some newly-minted credibility and exposure, Deere Run opened 29 years after big-time pro golf debuted in the Quad Cities in 1971. The pro and said, 'Let's do it.'" And so they did.

The first Quad Cities Open teed off on Sept. 16, 1971 as a satellite tournament, sanctioned not by the PGA Tour but by the Quad Cities Golf Association. Then-PGA Tour commissioner Joe Dey encouraged the Western Golf Association and the USGA to lend a

That the Quad Cities remains in the PGA TOUR web well into the Tiger Woods era is a story of luck, pluck, fortuitous timing, and never-say-die determination. It is also a tale of vision.

"I always thought there was a place for something major like a golf tournament in the Quad Cities," Fry, that first Crow pro, said in 1990. "I opening of the new course signified a new and unusual era of stability for the oft-struggling tournament. Now sponsored by and titled for John Deere, the area's international corporate bedrock, the tournament soon would become the envy of stability for other Tour events. Indeed, professional golf in the Quad Cities had come a long, sometimes difficult, way to such a bright future.

Professional golf got its start in the Quad Cities nearly 50 years ago, when a group of founding members of the new Crow Valley Country Club in Bettendorf, Iowa, thought bringing a PGA TOUR event to town might be a good way to promote their new private golf club. Longtime local tournament godfather Whitey Barnard and the late Bob Fry, former Davenport, Iowa, municipal course head professional, put the wheels in motion for what would become the 1971 Quad Cities Open.

"We weren't organized," said Barnard, who died mere months prior to Deere Run's June 2000 grand opening. "We were just a bunch of guys who wanted a golf tournament. We hired Bob Fry as our hand to the fledgling event. "The PGA let us know they wanted us to succeed," Barnard recalled.

At the '71 tournament, a journeyman pro named Deane Beman, who would later succeed Dey as commissioner, won the event and $5,000, topping fellow PGA Tour member Dow Finsterwald by two shots at Crow Valley.

But Beman wasn't finished with the Quad Cities. Dey and the Tour had liked what they'd seen in '71 so much that they made the QCO a full-fledged event the very next year. And in 1972, Beman again prevailed at Crow Valley, nipping a kid named Tom Watson by two strokes and taking home $20,000 in official PGA Tour winnings.

"They were looking down the road and they liked the Quad Cities," Barnard said later, when asked to explain how a major-league sport like the PGA TOUR landed in a small midwestern market like the Quad Cities. "Even then, they had a plan as to how they wanted to Tour to look. Communities were being drawn into the PGA TOUR web."

must have been right. It's still there."

In 1973, Beman finished sixth at the QCO behind southpaw victor Sam Adams and abandoned his brief playing career to succeed Dey as commissioner of the Tour. Beman's ascension was fortuitous, to say the least, for the Quad Cities event, which would forever hold a special place in his heart as well as his trophy case. The winner of the first two Quad Cities Opens frequently was a friend of the event through the turbulent years that followed.

The turbulence started almost immediately. In 1974, Beman scheduled the QCO the same week as the British Open, which turned out to be a blessing and a curse. A blessing because the Tour needed to offer a sanctioned mid-July stateside option to its many members who weren't exempt for the British and who didn't have the time, cash or inclination to travel across the Atlantic and try to qualify. This was a key reason Beman often bent over backwards to help keep the QCO afloat through challenging times. The curse was that established stars who did play the British Open couldn't play in the Quad Cities.

Beman admitted to a particular affection for the event. "Since I was only on Tour six years and won five tournaments, two of them there, I feel pretty special about it," Beman said.

Beman proved his affection in 1975 when the original tournament organizers were ready to pull the plug. Crow Valley no longer needed

Four more Ed McMahon

Jaycee's Quad Cities Opens followed. And with Carson's second banana enticing first-flight pro-am attractions like Jerry Lewis, Bob Hope, Mickey Rooney and Telly Savalas to the nation's midsection, those tournaments were among the most star-studded in tourney history.

McMahon's tenure – and the tournament's strong Hollywood

With golf caps in hand, though, the tournament board appealed to various local cities and communities for tax donations to save a civic asset. Four came through – Rock Island, Moline, Coal Valley and Milan – but the board was $16,000 shy of what was needed to bump the purse to $300,000.

Beman and the Tour again stepped in and filled in the blank. "It the tournament. Hardee's Restaurants, a key early sponsor, no longer could afford it. And the Tour was insisting on a $125,000 purse – $25,000 more than the year before – a figure the organizing committee found daunting.

On April 20 of that year, a news conference was set for the studios of WQAD-TV in Moline where Barnard and his team planned to announce the tournament's end. But the Quad Cities Council of Jaycees, a group of local tournament supporters, stopped the news conference minutes before it began and kept the tournament alive.

First, the Jaycees moved the event to Oakwood Country Club in Coal Valley, Ill., another relatively new golf course. Next, TV star Ed McMahon, longtime sidekick of Johnny Carson on his wildly popular Tonight Show, was recruited to be the event's official host. Finally, Beman allowed a one-time purse of only $75,000. The '75 tournament went on and Roger Maltbie, now a network golf commentator, won it. He had no problem cashing his $15,000 winner's check.

1995-1998

connection ended in 1980, and soon the QCO board of governors found itself in precarious financial straits. In October 1983, an audit found the tournament was $140,000 in debt, partially as a result of losses that began accruing when the 1978 pro-am was rained out.

It didn't matter that future PGA TOUR stars like D.A. Weibring, Payne Stewart and Scott Hoch won the tournament in the late '70s and early '80s. Over a six-year period, it lost money in five.

Things were so bad that the tournament board declared a do-or-die fund drive to save the 1984 event. Again, the community came through with $149,000 to save it from extinction. A year later, though, Beman and the Tour insisted that the well-below-average purse of $200,000 in 1984 grow by $100,000 in 1985.

Again, the end of the Q-C tourney was a possibility. In fact, Chattanooga, Tenn., like an undertaker with a hearse, was parked at the door, waiting to scoop up the July 1985 spot on the PGA TOUR calendar.

1999-present

had been a good tournament when times were good and we feel a greater responsibility than other sports to stick with an event you have and make it work," Beman said.

The tournament would need that kind of help again, but not for another nine years.

In 1986, the tournament picked up its first full-fledged title sponsor and became known as the Hardee's Golf Classic. The company had a long history with the tourney dating from its inception.

The first sponsors of the Quad Cities Open were three men from Kewanee who owned nine Quad Cities area Hardee's franchises, then a fledgling fast-food chain. "Brick" Lundberg, Ted Vlahos and Dr. L.T. Boley pit their names on a $150,000 note to help bankroll the 1973 and 1974 Hardee's Quad Cities Opens.

Health problems and a tightening fast-food economy forced the three Hardee's franchisees to give up that sponsorship in 1975, but Jim Jensen, then a manager of the Lundberg-owned Hardee's in Bettendorf, never forgot the name of that first title sponsor.

A decade later, Jensen, now president of a Midwestern group of Hardee's franchisees, saw a competitor's coupon on the back of his 1985 ticket. He quickly assured that would not happen again by signing on as title sponsor.

The Hardee's Golf Classic name was born in 1986 and lasted through 1994. The first HGC featured a $400,000 purse and was seen in the Midwest and Southeast on a regional syndicated TV network flagshipped by WQAD in Moline.

By 1989, the pros were playing at Oakwood for $700,000 and Ted Turner's WTBS cable superstation was the outlet. Curt Byrum's win wasn't the big news that year, though. Early in the week, Jensen and tournament directors announced that the 1990 tournament would feature a $1 million purse and take place in September – out from under the British Open.

From 1990 through 1994, the finest fields in tournament history came to Oakwood. But the event lost its summertime feel and cold and rainy weather dampened enthusiasm.

When Hardee's sponsorship ended in 1994, the search for a new title sponsor became dire.

As fate would have it, the PGA TOUR introduced the Presidents Cup in 1994. Beman's successor, Tim Finchem, needed to find an existing Tour event to accept dates opposite both that and the hugely successful Ryder Cup. Faced with potential extinction, the Quad Cities tourney raised its hand.

By agreeing to take a back seat each fall to the two bi-annual events, the Quad Cities tournament received funding from the Tour, providing officials a four-year window to seek out a new sponsor.

That didn't feel like such a great deal in September 1995, when D.A. Weibring became the tournament's only three-time winner in the only rain-shortened, three-round event in tournament history.

But one year later, it was the Presidents Cup that, improbably, found itself taking a back seat to the 1996 Quad City Classic, where a 20-year-old rookie named Tiger Woods appeared to be on the brink of his first PGA TOUR victory. Over a dozen national golf writers left the Presidents Cup near Washington, D.C. and flew to Moline on Sept. 15 to see if he could close the deal.

Woods didn't win the '96 Classic – a quadruple bogey on Oakwood's fourth hole saw to that – but he caused quite a stir nonetheless. It was Woods' third event as a professional and the first PGA TOUR event he had led. Excited crowds joined the national media to witness what many thought would be history in the making. Instead, journeyman pro Ed Fiori went on to defeat Woods.

While Woods was grabbing the headlines, history of a different kind was being made behind the scenes at Oakwood. There, as rain washed out the afternoon portion of the Wednesday pro-am, Weibring met with representatives of the tournament and Moline-based Deere & Company to discuss the possibility of building a lavish new golf course on a company-owned former horse farm in Silvis, Ill.

Finally, on April 2, 1997, after nearly a year's worth of high-level negotiations, PGA TOUR Commissioner Tim Finchem and Deere CEO Hans Becherer announced plans to build the Tournament Players Club Deere Run on the Friendship Farms property owned since 1928 by the ancestors of company founder John Deere.

As a key element of the agreement, Deere became the official golf course equipment supplier of the TPC network as well as becoming title sponsor of the John Deere Classic.

"Our sponsorship of the John Deere Classic offers us a unique set of business opportunities," said Robert Lane, former chairman of Deere & Company. "At the same time, it enables Deere to contribute significantly to the improvement of the Quad Cities area by stimulating economic activity and helping to generate charitable contributions for local non-profit organizations that are the backbone of our community."

Deere uses its various sponsorship benefits to expand and deepen relationships with prospective and current business partners while increasing worldwide consumer awareness of its esteemed brand and products via international media exposure.

Meanwhile, the Quad Cities and surrounding communities benefit from the tournament's charitable programs. In the record year of 2019, $13.82 million was delivered to 542 organizations, taking the John Deere Classic over $120 million.

Additionally, the tournament has an annual direct and indirect economic impact of an estimated $53 million on the Quad Cities economy, according to a study made by the Quad City Convention Bureau. At the core of Deere's title sponsorship is a long-term, financially sound, mutually beneficial business partnership between Deere & Company and the PGA TOUR. Key elements of Deere & Company's initial contract with the Tour were:

- Deere & Company assumes title sponsorship of the Tour's Quad City event through 2006;
- for the first time, network TV covers the tournament;
- Deere becomes "Official Golf Course Equipment Supplier of the PGA TOUR" with the aim of boosting the already strong performance of its Golf & Turf Division;
- and the Tour agrees to lease Deere's full range of golf and turf equipment – along with utility vehicles and selected construction equipment to maintain the Tour's 25 owned-and-operated Tournament Players Club courses.

As courses are added to the TPC network, each new course will be groomed with John Deere equipment. The initial nine-year title sponsorship agreement – since extended first through 2016 and then through 2023 – revolved around three consecutive three-year equipment leases underwritten by John Deere Credit Company and paid for by TPC network courses. Deere entered the golf course equipment business in 1986, utilizing its PGA TOUR relationship to solidify and expand its market leadership.

Deere donated 385 acres of scenic company-owned land near company headquarters in Moline for construction of the Tournament Players Club Deere Run. A public daily fee facility that also offers membership privileges, the TPC Deere Run became the site of the John Deere Classic starting in 2000. The PGA TOUR constructed and operates TPC Deere Run. D.A. Weibring, three-time champion of the Quad City tournament, served as player design consultant, and worked closely with golf course architect Chris Gray of PGA TOUR Design Services. Unlike most other courses in the TPC network, Deere Run has no residential component.

Deere's title sponsorship agreement not only is one of the longest on the Tour, its unique elements represent an evolution of a traditional sports sponsorship.

"The days of corporations paying out millions of dollars merely to display their logos and invite some customers to play in a pro-am are long gone," said Sean Brenner, managing editor of the Chicago-based IEG Sponsorship Report, which tracks sports marketing.

"The integrated sponsorship arrangement between Deere & Company and the PGA TOUR is a new kind of sports marketing partnership that provides concrete economic benefits to both parties while offering traditional sponsor benefits, such as hospitality, television and promotional opportunities. Because the sponsorship is structured to capitalize on unique aspects of Deere's core business, the company and the golf tournament will be truly linked," Brenner said.

Deere's 2016 title sponsorship and golf course equipment licensing agreement made Deere the Tour's "Official Golf Course Equipment Leasing Company."

For a tournament that has such a rich history of turbulence, Deere provides the solid foundation it will need if it is to grow bigger and better in the years to come.

In 2011, the tournament itself made history when Steve Stricker became one of only 17 players in the annals of championship golf to win the same event at the same course three consecutive times. Stricker's miraculous finish included a 184-yard 6-iron from a hanging lie in a fairway bunker to 25 feet just off the back of the green. Stricker holed the downhill left-to-right breaker and the crowd exploded with cheers. Among the other players to win three straight are legends Walter Hagen, Ben Hogan, Johnny Miller, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer (twice), Henry Picard, Gene Sarazen, Tom Watson and Tiger Woods (four times).

There were more dramatics in 2012. On the second hole of sudden-death, Zach Johnson hit a 192-yard 6-iron from the fairway bunker on the 18th hole that bounced on the green and rolled to within inches of the cup. The Cedar Rapids native and former Masters champion – and eventual Champion Golfer of the Year – tapped in for birdie to win what he consistently called his "fifth major."

Johnson had been a member of the tournament executive board since 2004. In the playoff he defeated Troy Matteson after both finished 72 holes at 20-under par.

In 2013, 19-year-old rookie Jordan Spieth won a five-hole playoff against Johnson and journeyman pro David Hearn to capture his first PGA TOUR victory and become the youngest Tour winner in more than 80 years (Ralph Guldahl had won at 19 years in 1931). Spieth earned PGA TOUR Rookie of the Year honors and was a captain's pick on the U.S. Presidents Cup team.

In 2014, Brian Harman shot a final round 5-under 66 to edge Zach Johnson by one shot to win, becoming the 20th first time winner at the John Deere Classic.

Spieth opened the 2015 Deere with an even-par round that left him scrambling to make the cut. He climbed the leaderboard with a fast Friday finish, then took a two-shot lead into Sunday's finals thanks to a two-eagle Saturday round of 61.

While a sluggish Sunday start left Spieth looking at a four-shot deficit to journeyman Tom Gillis, Spieth recorded three birdies on the back nine to tie Gillis and earn a playoff opportunity. His final-round 3-under 68 gave him a total of 20-under 264. On the first playoff hole, they matched pars. Playing No. 18 the second time, Gillis dunked his approach in the water while Spieth calmly made a two-putt par to secure his fifth PGA TOUR victory.

The tournament changed dates in 2016 to August to accommodate the Olympics. Ryan Moore shot 22-under-par 262 to earn the victory and secured his first Ryder Cup berth, where he would win the point that clinched the match for the United States over Europe.

In 2017, Bryson DeChambeau became the 21st player to make the John Deere Classic his first PGA TOUR victory. The 23-year-old from Modesto, Calif., holed a clutch 14-foot putt on the 18th green to finish off a back-nine 30 and 6-under 65 in the final round to win in come-from-behind fashion at TPC Deere Run.

In 2018, Michael Kim stormed to his inaugural PGA TOUR title, setting a tournament record of 27-under 257 and winning by eight strokes. Kim beat a quartet of runners-up that included Fransecso Molinari, who would capture the British Open the following week.

At the 18th green, Kim was surprised and delighted to discover his family, who had arrived in Silvis in the Sunday's early hours, waiting for him after he sank the final putt.

Dylan Frittelli kept the run of first-time PGA TOUR winners going in 2019. He had twice won on the European Tour, but had to hold off fast-closing Russell Henley down the stretch for his first U.S. victory.

The COVID-19 coronavirus pandemic forced the postponement of the 50th anniversary playing from 2020 to 2021, and then the reduction of many of the ancillary anniversary celebrations. But the tournament was held, and Lucas Glover proved a worthy winner, returning to form and to victory circle for the first time in over 10 years. Glover's 8-under 64 on Sunday allowed him to overcome a four-stroke deficit and beat Ryan Moore and Kevin Na by two strokes. Glover had been best-known for winning a U.S. Open at Bethpage Black and only once after that. His 12th appearance in the Quad Cities revitalized his career.

J.T. Poston had a similar experience in 2022. He hadn't won since the 2019 Wyndham, but led wire-to-wire – that hadn't happened in the tournament in 30 years, and never at Deere Run – to capture the 51st Deere by three strokes.

The success has continued. Going into the U.S. Open, Poston had already scored three top-10 finishes and earned over $1.5 million this season.

As so often happens, like so many other winning performances in the past, his showing at TPC Deere Run started it, proof once again the tournament's recently-minted slogan is more than mere words: Magic Happens Here.

The Trophy and the tee markers

Each year the winner of the John Deere Classic receives a unique trophy created specifically for the tournament by renowned sculptor and jewelry designer Malcolm DeMille. He's a cousin of legendary filmmaker Cecil B. DeMille.

Commissioned by title sponsor Deere & Company, the John Deere Classic trophy is a custom-made fine art sculpture cast and finished in bronze that depicts a chocolate brown-colored deer bounding across a fairway in front of an elevated green bordered by a stream. The piece is eight inches high, nine inches wide and sits on the 15-inch cherry wood base. It weighs 35 pounds.

The leading deer has been a part of the company logo for nearly 170 years. The golf course setting refers to the company's major presence in the golf and turf equipment market. Deere & Company is the official golf course equipment supplier of the PGA TOUR.

DeMille and his staff were asked to hand-make three similar trophies – one for the individual champion, another that is on permanent display in the TPC Deere Run clubhouse, and a third on display at PGA TOUR headquarters in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla. The permanent clubhouse trophy has a copper band around the wood base where the name of each champion is inscribed along with the year he won.

Equally distinctive are the tournament's signature tee markers, which feature miniature versions of iconic John Deere products, such as tractors, combines, front-end loaders and bulldozers. The small replicas are mounted on wood bases and placed on all 18 tee boxes at TPC Deere Run, marking for contestants each hole's exact starting point.

At the conclusion of each tournament, the winner's name is engraved on a nameplate, which is affixed to the wood base and autographed by the champion. Over the years, the tee markers have become collectors' items and many have been auctioned off at charity functions.

Graham succeeds Stuedemann as TPC Deere Run superintendent

There's a new master of the mowers at TPC Deere Run, and one with a familiarity for the property.

Jonathan Graham, who spent four years at TPC Deere Run as an assistant to superintendent Alex Stuedemann, took over for his former boss last September.

"This is a move that gets us back closer to our family, which is really important to me," said Graham, a 10-year member of the Golf Course Superintendents

Association of America. "And to come back to a golf course that I love and know really well just made it a no-brainer for me. I'm really excited for the opportunity."

Graham had been the senior assistant superintendent at TPC San Antonio prior to returning to the Quad Cities.

Stuedemann, the Deere Run superintendent for 15 years in two stints, took a new position as director of agronomy for the TPC course network last September.

His longevity and Graham's previous experience on the grounds have made for an easy transition for both day-to-day operations and tournament preparation. Sharing that knowledge with others than he has benefiting from it himself. In September, he'll begin a new adventure as the director of agronomy for the PGA Tour's TPC Network of facilities, turning the reins over to Graham, his former first assistant.

“This golf course and this community are parts of our life, parts of our family. They’re really a part of the fabric of who we are,” says Stuedemann, a 24-year GCSAA member. “I know what I’ll miss most are the people here who have been a part of our lives for so long. But we’re not really going anywhere. Those people are all friends and they’re still going to be there for us. We’re still going to live in Moline, so that won’t change.

“I’ve always thought that you can’t grow if you’re not a little scared, a little anxious. Life can get pretty boring otherwise, so I’m definitely excited about this new opportunity.”

Stuedemann replaced Dennis Ingram, who recently retired after more 25 years overseeing the TPC network. He works with courses and superintendents across 32 facilities on matters of tournament prep and agronomy, in addition to more day-to-day operational needs. He will also dip his toe into PGA Tour tournament prep at courses outside of the TPC world, as needed.

“The way it was put to me was, ‘Alex, you’ve got 23 years of varied experience. It’s time to share that with more entities than just Deere Run,’” Stuedemann says. “That was really gratifying to hear, so to be able to do that ... was just such a great opportunity that I couldn’t pass it up.”

Graham shadowed Stuedemann at last year’s John Deere Classic. The opportunity to return to Deere Run was an offer he couldn’t refuse.

New England Patriots’ jet to fly players to Scottish Open

Players flying to the Scottish Open will fly first class this year, thanks to the return of the John Deere Classic’s intercontinental shuttle from Quad Cities International Airport to Edinburgh, Scotland.

The tournament has chartered one of the New England Patriots’ two Boeing 767-300ERs, a wide-body jet with 6,500-mile range that can cross the Atlantic, for the journey.

Comfort is the signature of the jet. Wider seats than normal and enough legroom for an offensive lineman means there will be plenty of space for the golfers, their caddies and their guests.

Built in 1991 for American Airlines, the Patriots bought it and an identical jet in 2017. In season, the jet, outfitted with all first class seating, moves the Patriots and their equipment to road games. The rest of the year, the Patriots charter it out, sometimes donating the use for charitable causes. In recent years, it’s been used to bring back over a million masks from China in the early stage of the COVID-19 pandemic, John Deere Classic Record Book – Page 11 and to transport healthcare workers to the Super Bowl.

Last year, the Patriots’ jet made a stop in Des Moines, part of an airlift of Iowa National Guard members.

As the photograph shows, the Patriots’ jet can easily be recognized not only by their name on the fuselage, but by the six Lombardi trophies painted on the tail. There were originally five, and team owner Robert Kraft was all too happy to order the redecaling after the Patriots captured Super Bowl LIII.

Holding The Lead

It's not easy to hold the lead in the John Deere Classic. More often than not, the leader after any stage has lost it to the eventual winner. The times a winner has led or co-led (54 holes 1995):

- After 18 holes: 7 in 51, 13.72 percent.
- After 36 holes: 15 in 51, 29.41 percent.
- After 54 holes: 23 in 50, 46 percent.

- The first round leader or co-leader has won only three times since 1996 (John Senden 2006, Brian Harman 2014, J.T. Poston 2022).
- The second round leader or co-leader has won four times since 2003 (Steve Stricker 2010, Ryan Moore 2016, Michael Kim 2018, J.T. Poston 2022).

- 1975-1979 Ed McMahon-Jaycees Quad Cities Open
 The longtime sidekick to Johnny Carson joined the ranks of personalities with their name attached to a golf tournament, and brought in by the Jaycees for a five-year ride.

 Deere & Company became a presenting sponsor in 1995, and assumed title sponsorship starting in 1998, but without a name change, at the direction of then-CEO Hans Becherer, who anticipated a move from Oakwood CC to TPC Deere Run in 1999.
- 1999-present John Deere Classic
 The tournament moved to TPC Deere Run in 2000. The sponsorship, including a PGA Tour equipment sponsorship and since extended several times, most recently through 2026, was announced on April 2, 1997.

Birdies For Charity

The Birdies for Charity program began in 1993 as a safety net for tournament charities, and raised about $183,000 the first year.

In 2022, combined with Deere & Company's bonus donation, it raised a record $13.908 million for 481 area charities. That surpassed the previous record of 2019, when the program raised $13.81 million for 542 charities. In 2020, even with the tournament cancelled because of the COVID-19 pandemic, it raised almost $12.22 million, distributed to 465 local and regional charities.

The tournament's charity total, the great majority generated by pledges raised by 54,470 birdies in 29 years, is $159.57 million, of which more than $156 million – 97.7 percent – has come since Deere & Company assumed sponsorship of the tournament in 1998.

First time PGA Tour winners in bold. Twenty-three of the 43 individuals to win the John Deere Classic have been first-time Tour winners. Of those preceding Michael Kim, it was the only career victory for Adams, Lister, Morley, Byrum, Clark, Gossett, and Hensby, though Hensby also has a victory on the European PGA Tour. Dylan Frittelli had two European Tour wins before triumphing at TPC Deere Run.

* Kim turned 25 on Saturday of the tournament.

Comparative Rankings

The Comparative Point Averages, created to compare players across generations, are based on a sliding point scale for the first 25 positions, with 100 points for a win down to 10 points for 25th place. The scale, revised slightly in 2017, is designed to reward consistent play more than occasional brilliance, which is best seen in the leaders for 11 or more starts. Players tying for a position are given full points for that position.

TPC DEERE RUN HOLE BY HOLE

1 Grand Detour

395 / 4

2021 Avg.: 3.861

Rank: 14th hardest

The course begins with a short par 4, with an uphill tee shot to a generous fairway surrounded by bunkers. The green is also guarded by bunkers, and sits among a stand of oaks.

This is about as easy as it gets for a while.

4 Friendship Farm

454 / 4

2021 Avg.: 3.917

Rank: 10th

A unique hole with a large oak tree splitting the landing area.

The green sits at one of the course's highest points. Miss left, right, or long, and it's a tough chip to a small green.

2 Col. Davenport

561 / 5

2021 Avg.: 4.531

Rank: 18th

A tee shot to a fairway 50 feet below makes the hole shorter than the card reads. A good drive, and it's reachable in two.

The green is guarded by wetland bunkers and trees. A small green makes pinpoint accuracy a must.

5 Lincoln's Crossing

433 / 4

2021 Avg.: 3.984

Rank: 9th

A long, straight drive down the left fairway is a must here. Trees guard the right side on your second shot, and the green sits behind a ravine loaded with bunkers and guarded on all sides by trees.

3 Stone House

186 / 3

2021 Avg.: 3.000

Rank: 7th

This uphill par 3 plays much longer than it reads on the card. Two bunkers guard the right side, while a bent grass collection area can grab shots going long and left. The front to back green makes club selection crucial.

6 William Butterworth

367 / 4

2021 Avg.: 3.895

Rank: 12th

The 2nd-shortest par 4 is the tightest. While short on length, it's long on danger. A straight drive leaves a short iron to a green with bunkers and a large swale in front, and a bent grass collection area in back.

2021 Avg.: 3.121

Rank: 4th

+226
+221
+185
-160
+129

This is the longest 3 par on the course, and the most picturesque. Into the normal prevailing wind, this hole will test the accuracy of even the best players. Carry it to the green or the bunker on the right and let the ball feed down to the green.

8 Sanctuary

428 / 4

2021 Avg.: 3.908

Rank: 11th

+428
+377
+366
-348
+313

A tee shot through a chute of trees to a tight, narrow fairway. The small bunkered green calls for an exacting 2nd shot. A small tongue on the front of the green is a spot for one of course's hardest pin positions.

9 Howitzer

503 / 4

2021 Avg.: 4.209

Rank: 2nd

+480
+449
-409
+348

The longest par 4 and one of the most testing holes on the course. A level landing area for your drive will leave you with a shot through the trees to a long green that has bunkers on both sides.

10 Cor-Ten

596 / 5

2021 Avg.: 4.814

Rank: 15th

+596
+576
+512
-486
+466

Not real tight on your 1st and 2nd shots, but they better be long. The green is very small for a par 5 and there is no room for error on your third shot. Bunkers protect the left side while a pond protects the right.

11 Jump Start

432 / 4

2021 Avg.: 4.031

Rank: 5th

+432
+425
+392
-386
+318

A tree-lined fairway needing length and accuracy. The 2nd shot is to a tough green on the edge of a ravine. Short of the green slopes to the ravine; a bunker green right saves most balls from a watery grave.

12 Master Stroke

215 / 3

2021 Avg.: 3.029

Rank: 6th

+215
+203
+178
-157
+131

A long par 3 through a tree-lined fairway to a well-bunkered green. This is one of the bigger greens on the course, but don't miss it, there is trouble all around it.

TPC DEERE RUN HOLE BY HOLE

13 Poppin' Johnnie

424 / 4
2021 Avg.: 3.890
Rank: 13th

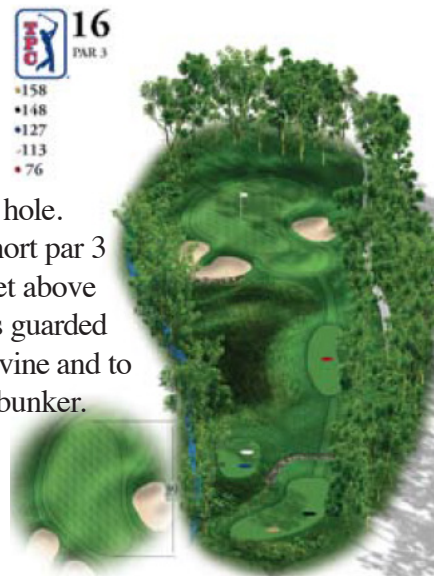

Probably one of the friendliest holes on the course. A fairway with bunkers on both sides to a green guarded by a large bunker on the right and a large berm on the left.

16 Mother Earth

158 / 3
2021 Avg.: 2.991
Rank: 8th

Likely the signature hole. This picturesque, short par 3 sits on a bluff 40 feet above the Rock River. It is guarded in front by a deep ravine and to the right by a large bunker. The perilous Rock River is on right. It may be short, but it is dangerous.

14 Deere Run

361 / 4
2021 Avg.: 3.744
Rank: 16th

A fine risk / reward hole, drivable, but perils are many. Go for it and miss left and you're in a gully. A tightly-mown area leaves a blind shot to a small, well-protected green. Long and you're down a 60-foot bluff.

17 Stadium

569 / 5
2021 Avg.: 4.614
Rank: 17th

Reachable in two for the long hitters, but a perfectly-placed tee shot is needed. The fairway is tree-lined, and the green is guarded in front by bunkers. The elevated green has bent grass collection areas all around.

15 Coaltown

484 / 4
2021 Avg.: 4.132
Rank: 3rd

Probably the toughest hole on the back nine. It is long and tight, and goes to a long, narrow green that is heavily guarded by sand and trees. Miss this green, and you will be sorry.

18 Conquistador

476 / 4
2021 Avg.: 4.211
Rank: 1st

A great finishing hole puts a premium on driving accuracy. Hit it on the fairway's left side, but avoid the big bunker. From there, it's a long shot to a deep, narrow green guarded by two large bunkers and a pond.

Teenager Jordan Spieth goes from greenside bunker to the title

By TIM CRONIN

SILVIS, Ill. — Jordan Spieth had been on the verge of victory all season, which is amazing for a 19-year-old kid on the PGA Tour. He'd tied for second in Puerto Rico, sixth at Congressional, tied for seventh at Innisbrook and Colonial.

With each top 10, he gained more notice from his peers as a player to watch, and closely.

Sunday, July 14, at the John Deere Classic, Spieth was a sight to see. Starting the day six off the lead, he climbed into playoff position with an improbable birdie on the 72nd hole, holing out from the right rear greenside bunker, which is even more amazing.

Spieth then pounced and claimed victory with a par when two of his elders faltered on the fifth hole of a sudden-death playoff after each had nearly won earlier. Johnson lipped out a birdie putt on the first extra hole. Hearn missed a 5 footer so makable Spieth and Johnson had their hats off. Mind-boggling.

Spieth, a native of Dallas and a professional since December, a 19-year-old going on 35, made history with his triumph over defending champion Zach Johnson and Canadian David Hearn after they all scored 19-under-par 265. A teen hadn't won on the PGA Tour or the part-time circuit that preceded it since 1931, when Ralph Guldahl, like Spieth a Texan, won the Santa Monica Open at 19.

All of this was almost too much for the gallery of about 20,000 to comprehend. And Spieth, expected to take next week off, was instead the 28th and final player to board the special charter to Muirfield, having scored a berth in the Open Championship, and a new life when his 26-inch winning putt dropped.

He, too, struggled to take it all in.

"It's not setting in yet," Spieth, sitting with the trophy in front of him. "Maybe not until I wake up on the plane."

Here's what Spieth won, aside from that place in history:

1. The British Open berth, available at the Deere only to a winner not yet exempt;
2. A spot in next year's Masters Tournament;
3. A PGA Tour card through 2015 — he'd been playing as a "special temporary member" by virtue of those earlier good finishes;
4. A passel of playoff points. Along with the 500 earned by winning, he also collected those that he'd scored earlier, now that he's a full Tour member. And that puts him into the top 20, Tour officials said. Just like that.
5. The first place money of $828,000, running his season total to a shade over $2 million.

At age 19. Nineteen.

"I didn't think it would happen this early," Spieth said of all of the above. "The check's the check."

Then he patted the trophy, saying, "I was just playing for this."

"I mean, I had a plan," he said. "I guess the plan got exceeded. I wanted to just earn my Tour card for next year this year somehow. It hasn't hit me yet, and it will, but I'm just happy to go compete with those guys and somehow — my legs are tired — to get over there (to Muirfield) and regroup."

Spieth, who scored 6-under-par 65, opened with a bogey at the first hole, then caught fire with five birdies in the next 13 holes. And a funny thing was happening. The field came back to him, unusual at the Deere. There were birdies tweeting everywhere, except with the leaders.

"We were on the back nine, still four or five back, but the leaders weren't going to 21-, 22-under, which we thought they were going to," Spieth said. "I told Michael (Greller, his caddie), 'Hey, let's try to get a few birdies and have a good top 10.' Go home, take some time off."

He birdied 13 and 14, bogeyed 15, and was still three back of Johnson, who was at 19-under and holding for the longest time. Third-round leader Daniel Summerhays had swooned early, with four straight bogeys, then briefly tied Johnson.

Then came Spieth's time. He sank a 11-footer for birdie on the 16th, two-putted for birdie from 63 feet on the par-5 17th, then found the greenside right bunker from the 18th fairway. And the rest became history.

Harman stands tall in defeating local favorite Johnson for first Tour title

By TIM CRONIN

SILVIS, Ill. — Brian Harman admitted he felt the pressure. The 27-year-old, in his third full season on the PGA Tour, hadn't been in the final twosome in the final round until Sunday. He held the lead entering the final round of the John Deere Classic, and looked at the scoreboard after hitting a poor shot into the eighth green. "I saw the guys were playing well, so that's when I felt it, but I was able to hit three really good shots on No. 9 to birdie, and that kind of got me going," Harman said. He kept going all the way to his first victory on the circuit, a triumph over veteran Zach Johnson keyed by three straight birdies on the back nine. Harman's 5-under-par 66 for 22-under 262 edged Johnson, whose 7-under 64 was the best round of the day, by a stroke. He earned Harman $846,000 and the last spot in the British Open. "It was very hard, probably one of the hardest things I've ever tried to do in my life," Harman said. "Just trying not to let your mind run wild is the hardest part out there." Two years ago, Harman played with Johnson in a late pairing of the Deere that Johnson won, and learned a great deal about how to handle the heat.

"I talked to Zach about it, and he felt I was trying to get out of his way a little too much and that I needed to stake my ground a little bit," Harman said. He did so Sunday beginning on the par-5 second hole, sinking a 4-foot putt after a 223-yard approach. That jumped him to 19-under and set the tone. His bogey on the fifth hole became only a momentary speed bump once he birdied the ninth. He led Johnson and Scott Brown by a stroke at the turn and was ahead by as many as three strokes after his final birdie, a 6-footer on No. 16. Jhonattan Vegas raced into a tie for third with a closing 65, deadlocked with Jerry Kelly at 265. Scott Brown and Tim Clark tied for fifth at 266. Three-time winner Steve Stricker, playing with Harman, fell off the pace on the front nine, then dropped off the leader board with a double-bogey on the par-3 12th. His approach ended up in high brush behind and below the green. "It was hard to play after that," Stricker said. "I was just trying to get it in without getting in Brian's way." Stricker finished with 72 for 269, tied for 11th. Brown was tied with Johnson and Tim Clark briefly in mid-round, but played the back nine in par 36 and fell back.

Clark, the lone contender using a long putter, bogeyed the ninth hole to fall out of the joint lead. Harman, whose best previous finishes were ties for third place, also collects his first invitations to the Masters and the Tournament of Champions with the victory. He tried to block that out along the way. "When those thoughts enter, it's like what's the best way to get those things you want," Harman said. Johnson started three strokes behind Harman, but caught him by the 14th hole, when he tapped in from 10 inches for his third birdie in five holes and sixth of the day. But Harman answered at the drivable par-4 14th minutes later, getting up-and-down from a greenside bunker with a 14-foot birdie putt. He added birdies on the next two holes to pull away from the field. With a two-shot cushion on the 18th tee, a bogey on the final hole didn't hurt him. "He's always been known as a gritty player that plays pretty simple golf," Johnson said of Harman, a neighbor on St. Simons Island, Georgia. "To me it was just a matter of time." Defending champion Jordan Spieth finished in a tie for seventh after a closing 66 for 268. He was joined by Bo Van Pelt, Ryan Moore and Johnson Wagner.

Spieth doubles his pleasure, beats Gillis in playoff for second John Deere Classic title

By BARRY CRONIN

SILVIS, Ill. – Whether rallying from four shots behind with six holes to play for a second John Deere Classic win erased the doubts that followed his decision to play stateside prior to his bid for an historic third leg of the modern Grand Slam mattered little to Jordan Spieth on Sunday evening. But, hey, let's get his PGA Tour victory total right. A par on the second hole of sudden death lifted the hottest player in the game to five Tour wins and counting, a smiling Spieth was quick to point out when that number erroneously was cited as four.

"I know I don't get credit for winning Tiger's event and the Australian Open," he said of a pair of off-season victories that got him started on a run that may be remembered as one of the most significant in golf history. "But give me credit for all of my Tour wins."

By any measure, the 21-year-old Texan continues to collect praise for talent beyond his years and a similarly impressive demeanor many consider to be a credit to the gentleman's game.

"He has the best attitude I have ever seen in any player," gushed CBS commentator David Feherty. "He couldn't be more of a saint for the game of golf if his name was Andrew."

Yes. St. Andrew. And St. Andrews, of course, is the next stop on the Jordan Spieth Coronation Tour. Having already won the Masters and U.S.

Open – and with defending champion and world No. 1 Rory McIlroy a scratch due to injury – Spieth will be a prohibitive favorite at the historic Old Course this coming week.

And for those who still wonder if a gritty victory at a soft and birdie-yielding TPC Deere Run course that bears little resemblance to the birthplace of golf has him ready for the year's third major, Spieth – No. 2 in the world with a bullet – would have them know that the only opinion that matters is his own.

"I really didn't care anyway," he said of the debate over his choice to return where he scored his first victory in 2013, a win he credits with positioning him for all the success that has followed.

"I came here for a reason, and we accomplished that reason, and certainly have some momentum going into next week."

Perhaps a victory over a field that included only three other World Top 50 players ultimately won't be remembered as momentous. But, with a month remaining until the playoffs, it did earn Spieth 500 FedEx Cup points and pushed his season-leading total to a record 3,628 – 197 more than Tiger Woods earned in 2009.

It also left him one win shy of tying Woods for the most Tour wins prior to 22. And, furthermore, it is a win he achieved with what he apologetically described as something less than his A game.

Spieth opened this Deere with an even-par round that left him scrambling to make the cut, climbed the leaderboard with a fast Friday finish and then took a two-shot lead into Sunday's finale thanks to a two-eagle Saturday round of 61 that was his lowest number on Tour to date.

A sluggish Sunday start left him looking at a four-shot deficit to Gillis, while also trailing a game group that included former Masters champ and Deere Run master Zach Johnson, with only those six holes to play. (Johnson and Danny Lee tied for third, a mere stroke out of the playoff.)

He earned his playoff opportunity with three backside birdies en route to a round of 68 and a 20-under-par 264 total, then matched pars with Gillis on the first playoff hole. He nabbed Tour win No. 5 with another solid par when the 47-year-old Gillis, playing well above his ranking of No. 643 at week's start, found a brutal tree-blocked lie in the right rough and scraped a do-or-die attempt into the greenside pond.

Finally, for the record and for the sake of potential down-the-line doubters, Spieth's 2016 schedule will include a stop at Deere Run.

"This tournament means a lot to me," he said of an event that forever will be the first Tour win in an already remarkable career as well as the first he has ever won twice. "This is a tournament I truly love."

Moore rises to occasion, plays near-perfect golf in winning John Deere Classic

By RICK BROWN

SILVIS, Ill. — Ryan Moore came to the John Deere Classic with his game on an uptick. He left as a champion. And that was the plan.

"I played pretty well last week, and I came here to win a golf tournament," said Moore, 33, after a bogey-free 4-under-par 67 at TPC Deere Run gave him a two-shot victory over Ben Martin and his fifth career PGA Tour title.

Moore, who had tied for 17th at the Travelers Championship a week ago for his best finish on tour since March, also improved on an impressive streak of Deere finishes. He tied for eighth in 2012, tied for seventh in 2014 and has finished 24th or better every year since 2012.

"It's a golf course I've enjoyed," Moore said. "One I've grown to like more over the last few years. I've come to appreciate how well it does fit me and suit my game. I think that's where the good play comes from. Just being comfortable and confident. When I show up here, I feel like I can win."

Moore's closing 67, following a trio of 65s, was his 23rd straight subpar round at TPC Deere Run. Moore's winning total, 262, was 22 under par.

The victory was worth $864,000 to Moore. It vaulted him from 62nd to 23rd on the FedExCup points list two weeks before the playoffs begin.

Sunday marked the eighth time Moore took a 54-hole lead into the final round of a PGA Tour event. He's now won four of those eight. His last PGA Tour victory came at the 2015 CIMB Classic in Malaysia, a World Golf Championships event.

The secret to Moore's success was consistent play from tee to green.

"I like how steady it was," Moore said. "This was the kind of golf I feel like I can play. Just really solid, really steady, no bogeys on the weekend."

Moore made just two bogeys in 72 holes, and none over his final 46 holes. That streak goes back to the 8th hole in his second round. Moore hit 60 of 72 greens in regulation, and averaged 28 putts per round.

"It's the best I felt over the putter in awhile," Moore said. "Maybe years."

The champion found just two bunkers, and got up-and-down from both of them.

Precision golf like that gave Moore the luxury of finishing with eight straight pars.

"I just told him, 'You couldn't make one bogey out there for me today?'" Martin said.

Moore didn't exactly have it on cruise control the back nine. He said he was trying to make birdies. But his consistent play was the lifeline that got him to the winner's circle.

"I played so steady the whole week, but to say at any point today I was comfortable would not be true," Moore said.

No one got hot enough on the back nine to catch him.

"Solid play, and not making any bogeys, gave me that cushion and made it so I could just make eight pars in the last eight holes," Moore said.

Moore's lead was five shots with seven holes to play. Then Martin ran off three straight birdies to cut it to two with four holes to play. But Moore didn't buckle, playing consistent golf to the finish line.

Martin closed with a 68 and finished second alone at 20-under-par 264. Martin also jumped from 121st to 59th in the FedEx Cup Playoffs point list.

"I really needed to have a good week to take the pressure off," Martin said.

Whee Kim and Morgan Hoffmann shared third place at 267, five behind Moore. Kim closed with a 67, while Hoffmann treaded water with a 71.

"I just wanted to make a putt, which didn't happen all day," Hoffmann said.

Zach Johnson, who snapped Steve Stricker's three-year run of dominance in 2012, didn't have a vintage weekend. He finished at 9-under-par 275 after a final-round 68. Johnson had finished in the top three at the five previous Deeres.

"I didn't have my 'A' game, aside from one day (a 65 Thursday)," Johnson said.

Family affair: Michael Kim runs away from field to secure first PGA Tour title

By RICK BROWN

SILVIS, Ill. — When Michael Kim added to his five-shot lead with birdies on the first three holes Sunday, he sucked the suspense out of the John Deere Classic.

At least until he reached the 18th green.

There, Michael was surprised to find his parents, Sun and Yun, and his older brother, Richard, were there in person to witness his first PGA Tour victory. And a record-smashing victory it was.

"I teared up a little bit on the green when I saw them," Michael said. "I really tried to two-putt the last green and not make a bogey."

Kim played the final 29 holes without a bogey, shot a closing 66 and smashed a pair of records. His winning score of 27-under-par 257, built on 30 birdies and three bogeys, was one record. It erased Steve Stricker's mark of 256 set in 2010. And Kim's eight-shot margin of victory was another record. David Frost had the old mark, a seven-shot victory in 1993 at Oakwood Country Club.

Kim, the 22nd player to score his first PGA Tour title at the Deere, lists sleeping as one of his hobbies on his biography. But he had trouble sleeping on the lead. Kim woke up for the first time at 4:30 a.m., eight hours before his tee time. He was so frantic he searched the Internet for ways to slow down his heart rate.

His family landed in Chicago at 4:30 a.m. after taking the red-eye from San Diego. They drove to the Quad Cities, took a short nap at a hotel and headed for the course. They stayed in the TPC Deere Run clubhouse while Michael played his way into the winner's circle.

"My parents didn't want to miss the first one," Richard Kim said.

Richard, who lives in Seoul, South Korea, just happened to be in San Diego visiting his parents for a few weeks.

"Great timing," Richard Kim said. "It's incredible I was here to see this happen."

One of the things that Michael read several times when he couldn't sleep was a text message he had received Saturday night from former Deere champion Zach Johnson.

"He told me, 'Just keep doing what you're doing,'" Kim said. "Nothing crazy. When I couldn't sleep, I kept going back to his message... whatever happens, happens. Score doesn't matter. Coming from a guy like that, it meant a lot."

Johnson, who is on the Deere tournament board, invited Kim to play in his Zach Johnson Foundation Classic in Cedar Rapids the Monday before the tournament. One Monday later, he landed at Carnoustie for the British Open.
