Extended forecast – Much warmer temperatures can be expected Friday ahead of an approaching cold front and a low-pressure system that will move through the region Saturday. This will bring a good chance for rain Friday night through the day on Saturday. Drier conditions return by Saturday evening with partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures expected for Sunday. A weak cold front will move through the region Sunday evening with a slight chance of showers. Cooler temperatures return on Monday with highs in the low 60s.
