Extended forecast – Seasonal weather conditions are expected on Saturday with partly cloudy skies and temperatures climbing near 80 degrees. Southwest winds could gust near 15 mph during the afternoon. A weak and moisture starved front will move across the Carolinas Sunday night. This could allow spotty shower development Sunday afternoon/evening. Any rainfall would be light, and lightning is not expected. Temperatures should reach the middle 80s Sunday with southwest winds gusting up to 20 mph.
