Things to Know

- Wyndham Clark holds off a trio of major champions – Rory McIlroy (2nd), Scottie Scheffler (3rd) and Cameron Smith (4th) – to win his first major championship and second PGA TOUR title
- Clark is the fifth straight player to win his first major championship at the U.S. Open
- McIlroy finishes second for his 19th top-10 in majors since his most recent title in 2014, the most of any player in that span; 23-time TOUR winner now has 10 runner-up finishes on TOUR and three in major championships
- Both Clark and McIlroy won their first PGA TOUR title at the Wells Fargo Championship and second at the U.S. Open
- Rickie Fowler becomes the 12th player to lead each of the first three rounds of the U.S. Open and not win (first since Russell Henley in 2021); falls to 2-for-10 to date in converting the 54-hole lead into victory
- Scheffler retains the top spot in the Official World Golf Ranking following a third-place finish, his 16th straight T12 or better on the PGA TOUR; is the only player with top-10 finishes in each of the first three majors this season
- With a 63, Tommy Fleetwood equals the lowest final round score in U.S. Open history for the second time (2018)
- Jon Rahm finishes T10 and retains the lead in the FedExCup standings
- The cumulative scoring average of 71.76 is the lowest in U.S. Open history
- The 2023 U.S. Open produced three rounds of 63 or better, the most in major championship history
