Extended forecast – Mostly sunny, breezy and warmer temperatures can be expected Friday ahead of an approaching cold front with highs in the low 80s. The cold front will slowly move southward on Saturday bringing a good chance for showers and a few thunderstorms late morning into the afternoon. The front is expected to move south of Central Florida by Sunday morning and stalling. The front will likely be close enough to keep the chance for showers in the forecast Sunday with cooler temperatures in the 60s.
