

This week on the PGA TOUR: Wyndham Championship at Sedgefield Country Club

Aon Insight

At 545 yards on the scorecard, the 15th at Sedgefield Country Club is among the shorter par 5s players face on the PGA TOUR. The best protection this hole has comes from the thick Bermuda rough that can cause some unpredictable ball flights, and in turn, more conservative decision making. While virtually every player who finds the fairway will go for this green in two, less than 52 percent do so from the rough. This makes precision off the tee more valuable here than extra distance.

Contender Update

The final week of the Aon Risk Reward Challenge season on the PGA TOUR is here and Tyrrell Hatton has jumped to the top of the leaderboard. Hatton has an average score to par of -0.885 with two birdies recorded in seven different events and an eagle on the par-5 18th at the ZOZO Championship.

Last week's leader and top contender, Stephan Jaeger, recorded a par and birdie at the 3M Open and now sits just below Hatton with an average score to par of -0.872. With Hatton not in the field this week at Wyndham, Jaeger will need to at least record a birdie and eagle on the 15th hole to win the Aon Trophy and $1 million prize. Tune into CBS coverage throughout the event to follow the action over the next two weeks and see who is named this season's top decision maker.
