K.J. CHOI (67, -4)

MODERATOR: The day pretty colorful scorecard lots of lots of birdies bogies can tell us about your round?

CHOI: Long time 5-6 years ago it rolled back and shook quite a bit, sometimes in the back swing. In putting too, I lost the feel on a couple of shots. Today my goal on a couple of the pars was very good two days with the wind blowing it was very tough. One side the focus on putting Today they surprised me, eight birdies and three bogeys. I was fighting today.

QUESTION: What are you doing to help your backswing?

CHOI: I little more rest and stretching. Undering the body, sometimes on the top of the swing. I'm a little bit older. My muscles still continue to build up more practicing afternoon for understanding We're going and controlling Little bit practicing and putting and rest

QUESTION: Let's talk about the up and down round you had today How hard is it to kind of stay focused when you're going up and down like that?

CHOI: You know, it's my feel very comfortable today. I don't know why So more comfortable, golf course in the my shot and the wind blowing the low shot high shot. So many cut shots today. So many wonderful. So I'm playing well with Vijay together so good catching to he, he was very well on close shot so I follow him so many understand. More enjoyable golf course and then a little bit more short game improving and putting reading very well today so I continue I play I do best.

QUESTION: How tough were the conditions out there?

CHOI: Very difficult. Some hole in the very long and the one side of the penalty area and a T shot some very narrow is a very long. We continue good swing and good control in the ball low trajectories and the green is a little more firmer so every day so we practice and plan and it's softer so today some more warm bounce in the harder because more dry and more rolling and more harder so maybe weekend is no rain it's a more harder harder it's a very good control iron shot.
