

FRIDAY, JUNE 30th, 2023 - 5 AM U.S. Senior Open Weather Forecast

With air quality improving down to 50 PM2 late Thursday visibility will be a non factor for Friday through the end of the championship with zonal flow aloft out of the west keeping our skies clear of both smoke and clouds this morning. Light clouds start to fill in the sky mid morning with temps quickly warming into the 70s as the first wave finishes teeing off and will look to continue to climb back into the mid 80s this afternoon under partly cloudy skies. Light winds this morning starting out of the W will transition slightly over to the WNW as play gets underway this morning where they are expected to remain for the entirety of the second round before shifting slightly once again overnight to the NW for play on Saturday with intensity then dropping off slightly from Friday with this afternoon looking to produce the strongest winds of the Championship averaging near 12 mph gusting into the upper teens at times. For the weekend conditions will remain dry with temps warming each day into the mid 80s accompanied by dewpoints dropping each day back into the mid 50s from the 60s each morning keeping humidity values low during the day.
