Today – Cloud cover will gradually increase and thicken during the day. While the forecast will favor dry conditions, there is a very low (5-15%) chance that these clouds produce precipitation. The much higher threat for showers/T-storms will hold off until Sunday night. Temperatures should reach the upper 80s to near 90 degrees. Southwest winds will be in place with a few gusts approaching 15 mph late in the afternoon. Sunrise: 7:20am / Sunset: 7:28pm
