Today – High pressure will produce a moderate Santa Ana off-shore wind flow today providing mostly sunny skies and warmer temperatures. Highs will likely reach the low to mid 70s by early afternoon before cooling back into the 60s as the wind shifts off the ocean. Otherwise, northeast winds 5-10 mph this morning will shift out of the west this afternoon as the sea breeze moves on-shore. The wind may reach 10-15 mph at times with isolated gusts to 20 mph.
