Xander Schauffele (1st/-12)

- Seven-time PGA TOUR winner and Olympic gold medalist in 2020 seeks his first major championship title in his 175th start on TOUR and 28th start in a major championship
- Matches the lowest 36-hole score (in relation to par) at the PGA Championship: 12-under/Brooks Koepka/2019
- First time to begin a major championship with back-to-back rounds in the 60s
- Holds the second-round lead/co-lead for the first time in a major championship and the seventh time in individual stroke play events on TOUR, converting one of the previous six into victory (2022 Travelers Championship)
- Also held the second-round lead/co-lead at the Olympics in Tokyo where he won the gold medal, and with teammate Patrick Cantlay en route to winning the 2022 Zurich Classic of New Orleans
- Owns top-20 finishes in his last eight major championship starts, dating to the 2022 PGA Championship; best finish in the PGA Championship (T10/2020); best finish in any major (T2/2018 Open Championship, T2/2019 Masters Tournament)

- In 12 of the last 13 PGA Championships, the eventual winner was inside the top 10 after 36 holes (2020/Collin Morikawa/T25 after 36 holes)
- Owns a TOUR-leading streak of 47 consecutive made cuts
- At No. 3, one of five players among the top-10 of the Official World Golf Ranking who seek their first major championship victory
- Sits second in the current FedExCup standings, 1,976 points behind leader Scottie Scheffler

Miscellaneous Notes

- Collin Morikawa's (2nd/-11) five consecutive birdies at Nos. 4-8 marks his longest birdie streak in a round at a major championship (previous, 4/twice: R4/2019 U.S. Open, R2/2021 U.S. Open); T3 at the 2024 Masters Tournament is one of three top-10s this season (T5/The Sentry, 9th/RBC Heritage)
- Sahith Theegala (3rd/-10) seeks second PGA TOUR win in his 90th start (2023 Fortinet Championship); owns two runner-up finishes this season, both in Signature Events (2nd/The Sentry, 2nd/RBC Heritage)
- A win for Thomas Detry (T4/-9) would mark his first on the PGA TOUR; owns two runner-up results (T2/2024 Texas Children's Houston Open, 2022 Butterfield Bermuda Championship); last player to earn his first title on TOUR at a major championship: Matt Fitzpatrick (2022 U.S. Open)
- World No. 1 Scottie Scheffler (T4/-9) extends his streak to 42 consecutive rounds at par-or-better dating to an even-par final-round 70 at the 2023 TOUR Championship; Jack Nicklaus (1975) was the last reigning Masters champion to win the PGA Championship; last player to win consecutive major championships: Jordan Spieth (2015 Masters Tournament, 2015 U.S. Open)
- Mark Hubbard (T4/-9) makes his 14th cut in 14 starts this season and his third cut in three PGA Championship appearances (T51/2020, 75th/2023); T2 finish at 2019 Texas Children's Houston Open marks his best finish among 13 top-10s on TOUR
- Bryson DeChambeau (T4/-9) starts a major championship with back-to-back rounds in the 60s for the second time in his career; first time was the 2020 U.S. Open which he went on to win
- Jon Rahm (MC/E) snaps his streak of 18 made cuts in major championships, dating to the 2019 PGA Championship; longest active streak now belongs to Hideki Matsuyama (16)
- Tiger Woods (MC/+7) misses his 13th cut as a professional in major championships; also had two WDs, both coming after he had made the cut (2022 PGA Championship, 2023 Masters Tournament); before this week, had made one triple bogey in 22 PGA Championship appearances (Hole No. 6/R3/2022); makes triple bogeys at Nos. 2 and 4
- Sebastian Söderberg (T52/-2) makes a hole-in-one with an 8-iron at the 173-yard 8th hole, marking the fourth ace at Valhalla during a PGA Championship, with the previous three in 1996
- John Daly withdrew with a thumb injury before the second round; K.H. Lee and Ben Griffin withdrew before the resumption of play Saturday
