SHERWOOD PARK, Alberta – Sandy Scott, Tommy Cocha and Frederik Kjettrup enter the final round of the 2024 ATB Classic tied for the lead at 13-under.

Kjettrup turned in a 5-under Saturday, the best third-round score of the three leaders. Cocha followed suit with a 4-under day, and Scott maintained a share of the lead after carding a round of 3-under. This is the second consecutive week that Kjettrup holds a share of the lead heading into the final round.

Kjettrup, a native of Denmark, spent four seasons at Florida State University and earned PGA TOUR Americas membership after finishing No.8 in the 2024 PGA TOUR University Ranking. During his collegiate career, Kjettrup was a three-time individual champion (2022 All-American Intercollegiate, 2023 Watersound Invitational, 2024 ACC Championship) and was named a three-time All-American. Kjettrup claimed his first win as a professional last week at The Beachlands Victoria Open presented by Times Colonist.

A four-time winner on PGA TOUR Latinoamérica, Cocha holds a share of the lead heading into the final round for the first time this season. After falling outside of the top-60 after the Latin America Swing, Cocha was unable to secure exempt status for the remainder of the season. Cocha earned a spot in the field via Monday Qualifier, and would earn exempt status for the remainder of 2024 with a win.

Scott began his professional career in 2022 after starring at Texas Tech from 2016-2021. Scott won twice during his career in Lubbock, winning the 2019 El Macero Classic and the 2019 Carmel Cup. After his fifth season in 2020-21 was cut short due to a wrist injury, Scott earned status on PGA TOUR Latinoamérica for the 2023 season. Scott made 12 starts in his first season in Latin America and made eight cuts with three top-10 finishes.

Scott will play out of the second-to-last group on Sunday at 12:50 p.m., while Kjettrup and Cocha make up the final group and will tee-off at 1:00 p.m.
