Extended forecast – Much of the extended period will feature dry conditions under mostly sunny to partly cloudy skies. The only slight precipitation chances exist at times this weekend, but chances remain very low due to an abundance of dry air across the region. Above normal temperatures are expected through the weekend with highs reaching the mid-upper 80s and lows in the mid-60s. Winds gradually increase through the extended period and are expected to be strongest this weekend when southeasterly winds could reach sustained values near 10-12 mph with occasional gusts to 15-20 mph. The higher threshold of winds will be most likely across exposed/elevated areas of The Patriot Golf Club.
