Extended forecast – Patchy frost may develop across lower portions of the course Friday morning, otherwise expect mostly sunny skies and dry conditions amid light and variable winds. Isolated light showers will become possible overnight Friday into Saturday morning, with little to no accumulation expected. There will be the potential for patchy fog prior to 9am Friday, Saturday, and Sunday morning. Dry conditions are likely Sunday under partly cloudy skies. High temperatures this weekend will range from the low to mid-70s, while morning lows will be in the mid-30s to upper 40s.
