Extended Forecast – Dry, hot, and breezy Friday. Saturday, isolated showers and storms possible in the morning, and these appear to likely be hit or miss in nature. Expecting any rain to clear to the east by late morning/midday with dry conditions in the afternoon. Highest storm chances 5-10am Sat. Sunday, scattered showers and storms likely through the early morning, with lower chances for on and off storms then through the afternoon before storm chances pick back up in the evening. Winds will be breezy again Friday, with gusts approaching the lower 30s in the afternoon. Winds lessen Saturday and Sunday as a stalled frontal boundary sits near Omaha. Temps will be warm, especially Friday, with the heat index pushing near 102-105F.
