Extended forecast – The main concern will be the timing of the frontal passage and the associated showers/T-storms on Sunday. Currently, the period between 10am-3pm is favored. Additionally, coverage of showers/T-storms along the front likely remains scattered so impacts at the course could remain limited. Winds will be stronger during the day Sunday with gusts over 20 mph possible. Showers/T-storms are again possible on Monday, especially during the afternoon.
