Rest of Today – Scattered showers and a few thunderstorms will be possible into the late afternoon hours before shifting east. Showers and storms could produce heavy downpours in a short period of time. Otherwise, mostly cloudy skies will continue this evening into the overnight with lows dropping into the low 50s. A WNW breeze is forecast to increase this afternoon to 10-15 with gusts to 20 mph as well.
Sunrise: 5:49am / Sunset: 8:19pm Rainfall: 0.15"-0.30" with locally higher amounts possible.

Extended forecast – An upper-level low-pressure system will be north of the area Friday. Just close enough to keep a slight chance of showers in the forecast during the afternoon. The higher likelihood will be north across Pennsylvania. Otherwise, mostly cloudy skies and breezy conditions can be expected with highs in the 60s. The system finally pulls away this weekend leading to drier conditions. A mix of sun and clouds can be expected each day with lows in the 40s and highs in the upper 60s. The chance for showers returns on Monday as a front moves towards the region.
