Saturday – As dry air moves into the area a mostly sunny day is expected. An isolated shower or thunderstorm cannot be fully ruled out for the afternoon, but chances are low. A much warmer day is expected with temperatures rising into the upper 90s. Due to the dry air and wind, the heat index is expected to remain in the mid 90s. Winds will begin light and variable before taking on a primarily southeasterly component and strengthening with some 20mph wind gusts.
