Saturday – Mostly dry weather is expected today. A cold front is moving south through NC and will push south of the region by mid-day and lead to showers and possible thunderstorms, but it is expected to have already passed through the area by then. Partly to mostly cloudy skies will continue throughout the day. Winds are generally expected to be out of the north today, beginning near southwest and ending near northeast. In the afternoon, speeds will pick up with gusts near 20mph. Temperatures will warm into the low 80s by mid day. Rainfall: 0.10-0.20", if any | Sunrise: 6:00am/Sunset: 8:24pm
