Extended forecast– A back-door cold front is expected to settle into the Carolinas Saturday allowing slightly cooler air to reach the area with highs in the low to mid-80s. The front is still close enough to produce numerous showers and thunderstorms during the afternoon and evening hours. The front is forecast to move back to the north Sunday with showers and thunderstorms becoming likely again during the afternoon. No severe weather is expected, but storms will be slow moving and will likely produce heavy rainfall at times.
