Extended forecast – Saturday, trade winds look to increase slightly, with gusts of 20-22 mph common. A few peak gusts up near 25 mph are possible right along the ocean. Most of the day will remain dry and partly cloudy, though a brief passing shower will be possible. No thunderstorms are expected. Sunday, expect a slight decrease in trade winds, with gusts generally settling below 20 mph. Again, a brief trade shower or two cannot be ruled out Sunday but no thunderstorms are expected. Temperatures will top out near 88F (31C) each afternoon, warmest across interior parts of the course.

Forecast prepared by meteorologist Kyle Schanus.
