7 AM Weather Update

Saturday, April 11, 2026

Synopsis: After the cool start with temperatures around 50F. Another nice day is forecast with sunny skies and highs warming into the mid-80s this afternoon. Light and variable winds will average 3-6 mph, shifting out of the SSE after 3pm. Dry air will remain firmly in place through early next week, with relative humidity dropping to 20–30% each afternoon as high pressure strengthens across the Southeast. Mostly sunny skies will be maintained into early next week with temperatures rising into the mid-80s. Near record heat is possible by mid-week with highs in the low 90s.
